Third Sunday of Advent

DECEMBER 11, 2016

Isaiah 35:1-6a,10; James 5:7-10;
Matthew 11:2-11

Today is often called "Gaudete" Sunday; the word means "Rejoice!" It is the first word of the Latin Entrance Antiphon for today. Once again, our first reading gives the "signs" of the times of the Messiah: The desert will bloom; the wasteland will be fertile; the feeble will be strong; the blind will see, and so on. But, of course, that didn't happen.

John the Baptist, in prison now, sends word to Jesus: "Are you the one, or should we look for someone else?" He wanted Jesus to make everything perfect now. He wanted him to start acting like the Messiah whom they expected.

Jesus tells of some people who have been cured. But he proclaims blessed the person who does not lose faith because he is not the kind of Messiah they want.

What happens when things go wrong for us? What happens when we don't get our private miracle? Jesus is still Messiah! Perfection must await his "Second Coming."

Meanwhile, our second reading urges us to be patient. Don't lose faith and don't grumble. Come out of yourself and your own little world. Renew your hope and be a person of hope and joy. Show by your life that Jesus is Messiah!

The Church: While we profess the creed, we say, "We believe in Holy Catholic". Literally, the word "Catholic" Greek katholike means "general" or "universal". In his letter to Smyrneans, St. Ignatius of Antioch wrote in A.D. 107, "Where Jesus Christ is, there is the Catholic Church." It is from that letter, the word Catholic originated. Late in the second century, as they tried to explain the word "Catholic" they came up with two concepts. "Universal means the church is extended throughout the world, and the second concept is that the church is orthodox meaning it is faithful to the complete teachings of Jesus Christ. Both concepts are interrelated. It is clear from the gospel that Jesus meant the Church for the whole mankind and not for a few. Mt 24, 14 says, "And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached throughout the world as a witness to all nations, and then the end will come." It may mean that the gospel will reach all over the world before the destruction of Jerusalem. Enthused by the mandate of the Savior, Christian missionaries following the footsteps of apostles wanted to make the church true to the name Catholic. Thus, preaching the good news became the integral part of the Catholic Church not only in the process of going deep into the world, but also to intensively establish the good news in the hearts of the believers. By being Catholic, the church also means unity in diversity. The Church welcomes all people of different walks of life equally. In different countries, the Church celebrates liturgy in a different way by keeping the core of the liturgy the same. They also adapt numerous cultural richness which becomes a must in the modern evangelization. Despite all the attempts to keep the Church united, divisions and separations become inevitable. It was in 1054 that the Eastern part of the Roman Empire cut itself off from the root. To confirm its own stand, the Council of Florence in 1445, started speaking of the Church as "Roman Catholic Church, to emphasize acceptance of Rome as a condition for complete unity. Father Joe
